WEATHER FORECAST FOR ALABAMA.
Fair tonight and Tuesday; little change in temperature.

Few men ever bring something to eat to this town and carry it back. If it is for sale, they can sell it, if not, it will be eaten any way, likely.

This town is a better one to live in than it has ever been before for the reason that his world is a better world to live in than it has ever been, because people are better.

The horses and mules of this section are getting acquainted with all colors and kinds of automobiles, and the next thing to do is to give these same horses and mules better roads to travel over and they won't care much what they meet then.

Some man will turn in here on day and build a canning factory and go to putting up corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, peaches, apple sweet potatoes, and a lot of other stuff that we only enjoy a month or two during the year, and when he does, he will have something that will bring in good money the year round.

Richard Tillis, the wire-grass raised capitalist, who has been making fortunes dealing with the mounted men of Montgomery for the last dozen years, has bought out the Montgomery Traction Co. He bought one of the street railroads of Montgomery several years ago, then sold it, when he got his price. Now he has bought it back, after it had been consolidated, and bought it at his price doubled.

THE REASON FOR IT.

We publish in another place a table, showing the vote in the Presidential election, not as a news item, but as a matter of record. There are some who may not know that the Republican party in Houston county lost about 11,000 votes since the Roosevelt election four years ago. This might have been caused by the little work that was done just before the election, or it might have been from the compunction of conscience, what ever that is.

But that is not the main reason, either, why we publish it. We haven't said a word about it to a living soul, but it's to let the people try to figure out how came J. B. Bell to lead the ticket in this county, not that he wasn't the regular nominee, and was entitled to all the law allowed, but there is a reason. It bothered us when we first figured up the totals, and rested heavy on our minds, till we finally arrived at the cause, and then it was simple enough.

Those of us who were present last May when the returns from the primary were coming in ought to know, and remember to the last day, that look on Dell's face when the returns indicated that John Odum had the job of Superintendent of Education of Houston county. When you think of that expression, and of the crowd that was present, the rest is easy. That crowd resolved there and then, that thereafter, they would give him their full strength and support at the general election if it was going to make him look that way about it, so they remembered, the other day, and many wentway out of their way to put in a vote for Dell for the pain the early reports from the primary caused him. It was a matter of patriotism.

WILD AFTER NEGRO MURDERER.
Okmulgee, Okla., November 15.—After an afternoon of the wild scenes ever beheld in Okmulgee, during which two officers of the law were killed and their murderer, a negro, was burned to death by a furious mob, which applied the torch to the house in which he had taken refuge, Okmulgee tonight is at the fever point of excitement, and trouble is feared.

Governor Unshell has dispatched ten companies of militia here to assist in keeping order.

THE DEAD.

W. E. Robinson, sheriff of Okmulgee county.
Henry Klaber, a patrolman, who was assisting him.
Jim Decker, a negro.
The trouble arose when the officers came upon Decker and another negro fighting in the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad station. The officers notified them, Decker resisted and in the scuffle that followed, drew his revolver and shot the sheriff and officer to death.

Holding the crowd at bay with his revolver, Jim Decker made his escape and took refuge in a nearby house. Enraged by the shooting, a mob of 300 quickly formed and surrounded the house.

NEGRO'S BODY BURNED.

The mob, most of whom appeared to be armed, poured volley after volley into the building, Decker and all the while returning the fire. A number of persons in the crowd were wounded by Decker's bullets—one it is believed, fatally. A bullet finally struck Decker killing him instantly. The mob wild with delight, then applied the torch to the building, and the negro's body was burned to a crisp.

DEPOSE.

I have a few loads of turpentine, good for kindling.

HAAS COMMITTS SUICIDE

Maurice Haas, who attempted to murder the State's prosecuting attorney, F. J. Heney, in the court room at San Francisco last Friday, committed suicide in the jail yesterday by shooting his brains out with a pistol he carried with him concealed on his person.

DAMAGED BY FROST.

Mr. C. E. Ros, who is running a truck farm out south of the city, had his tomatoes, beans and other truck badly damaged last night by the sever cold and heavy frost. Mr. Ros had a quantity of tomatoes, about ripe and it is feared they have been entirely ruined by the cold.

TO BOLT THE PRIMARY.

On account of bad behavior of the nominee, J. O. Woodward, of Atlanta, a citizen's mas meeting has decided to bolt the nominee and run Robt J. Maddox, as an independent candidate for mayor. Under the circumstances this course of the Gate City's business men seems excusable, but the precedent they have set may bear fruit in future elections that will bring a condition that is undesirable in the extreme.

FIRE IN HEADLAND.

A fire in Headland Saturday morning destroyed W. B. Posey's heavy stable, together with eight horses and mules, ten buggies and a lot of feed stuff. Mr. Posey's loss amounted to $3,000.
A vacant store belonging to R. H. King & Bro. and the store and stock of groceries of H. M. White, was also burned. The loss of the latter amounted to $400, with no insurance.

COMBINES PUT UNDER BAN.
New York, November 15.—The sweeping character of the recent decision of the United States Circuit court in declaring the American Tobacco Company to be a combination in restraint of trade, is attracting widespread attention in business circles and among members of the legal profession. To have given special attention to the trust question, but not so much for its immediate effect on the allied tobacco interests, but more particularly for its scope and effect upon all classes of industrial combinations engaged in interstate traffic. An appeal of his decision to the United States supreme court is now in active progress of preparation by counsel in the case.

The full text of the decision discloses in the language of the judges, the gradual development of judicial interpretation of the law up to the present time, Judge Fox, one of the concurring judges (against the sugar refineries) he tendency has been constantly toward a wider scope of the statute.

BOUGHT IT BACK.

Mr. Richard Tillis has purchased from Philadelphia capitalists, the Montgomery Street Railway system. Mr. Tillis sold this property about three years ago and received $999,000 for it. He said the price paid for it this time was less than he received.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT.

The first Monday in December is the time for the sitting in Dothan of the Federal District Court and it is just possible that Judge Jones will decide that he will not come, and in that case there will be no court, of course.

DOWAGER EMPRESS OF CHINA DEAD.
Peking, November 15.—The Hai A, the dowager empress of China, the autocratic head of the government, which she has directed without successful interference since 1801, and without protest since 1881, died at 3 o'clock this afternoon.
The announcement of the dowager empress's death was official and followed closely upon the announcement that Kuang Hsu, the emperor had died yesterday at five o'clock in the afternoon. But it is believed that the deaths of both the emperor and the dowager empress occurred a considerable time before that set down in the official statements.

PRINCE PU-YI ON THRONE.

An edict issued at 8 o'clock this morning placed upon the throne Prince Pu-Yi, the three-year-old son of Prince Chun, the regent of the empire, in accordance with a promise given by the dowager empress as soon after the marriage of Prince Chun in 1903. An edict, issued on Friday, made Pu-Yi heir presumptive. The foreign legations were notified this morning by the foreign board of the death of the emperor and the succession of Prince Pu-Yi.

Troops have been in readiness for several days to quell any disorders that might arise on the death of Kuang Hsu, and the possibility of uprisings was made greater because of the fact that the death of the dowager empress was known to be close at hand. Two divisions of troops have been held in reserve, and these are now stationed in various quarters of the city. Twenty gendarmes were dispatched to guard the approaches to legations, but up to the present, the duties of the forces have been slight.

PRINCE CHUN IS REGENT.

Prince Chun, the regent, has ordered the viceroys and governors to take precautions for the continuation of the administration of the provinces as heretofore, and he has ordered a hundred days of mourning. The court will go into mourning for three years.

BATHING AT DIEPPE

When the Committee de Seigneurs Took In the Year 1800.

The Committee de Seigneurs to have given an account of a visit paid in 1800, which is interesting view of the position Dieppe has among French watering places.

"The poverty of the landscape," she says, "was frightful. The fishermen, as they called him (and he was worse than the sea), was crawling incessantly before the empty harbor. With much difficulty, a boat was able to escape from the time and go fishing, always at the risk of being captured by the fishermen coasted upon the return journey the telegraphs of the watches it seen it approach a vessel.
"As for the comforts arranged for the convenience of bathers, Dieppe has since organized, they are nonexistent at that time. My house was able to find a little covered and with great trouble and expense, notwithstanding the universal poverty, a man was hired to lead a horse down to the sea and two men to go into the sea with me.
"These preparations raised the public surprise and curiosity to such pitch that my first bath was watched by a crowd on the shore. My servants were asked if I had been bitten by a mad dog.
"I aroused extreme pity as I was by, and it was thought that I was being taken down to be drowned. A old gentleman called on my father point out to him that he was assuming a great responsibility in permitting such an act. It can hardly be imagined that the inhabitants of a sea shore could be so afraid of the sea.
"But at that time the people of Dieppe were chiefly occupied in keeping out of sight of it and in protecting themselves from the disasters which they feared the sea might bring, that it was for them nothing more than a means of annoyance and suffering. It is curious to think that in years later bathers were arriving in hundreds, that special arrangements were made for their convenience, that sea bathing of every kind went on without producing any unpleasant in the neighborhood.
"I have thus attempted to point out that the custom of sea bathing, which is now so universal, is comparatively recent in France, for Dieppe was the first place where it began."

"Why is a gun like a cat?" asked a comrade-in-arms.
"I dunno," replied the victim.
"Because they both go off."
"But there's a difference."
"What is it?"
"The cat comes back."—Buckley Weekly.

MUCH MATRIMONY.

Rev. W. M. Anderson did a large office business Saturday night, in the matrimonial realm. At 7:30 he made man and wife, Mr. J. N. Thornton and Miss Julia Timmerman, both of this city. About 8:10 P. M. he was called up over the phone and informed that a couple from Troy would be at the Pastorium in a few minutes and need his services. On arrival at the Pastorium, they proved to be Miss Ruth Shackelford and Mr. John Wesley Solomon, both of Troy, Ala. They were accompanied by Mr. Boyd, of Troy, and Miss Verne Shackelford, of this city. After attending services at the Baptist church, Mr. and Mrs. Solomon left for their future home at Troy, Ala.

Miss Shackelford has been conducting a large and successful school at Tennessee, and is highly esteemed by the patrons of her school.

We learn that these young people have been sweethearts for a long time and their marriage is no great surprise to the friends of both.

Why their trip to Dothan for the purpose of matrimony, and giving the transaction a runaway aspect has not been explained. But probably, since it was a very sensible thing to do, it needs no further explanation.

We extend best wishes to both these married couples and trust they may never come when they can look back upon it with anything but pleasure and satisfaction.

A negro Methodist Conference will assemble in this city this week, and will use their church which is not yet completed, for their deliberations.

A MEDFORD STORY.

Legend of the Phantom Ship and the Mad Pirate Captain.

The town of Medford, Mass., has a legend of a phantom ship which the Flying Dutchman is only a gentle sea monster. The Medford story runs that a ship laden with rum and gold and silver bars put out from that place in the days when the Spanish main was infested with pirates. It was headed for a West Indian port and got into the doldrums and was long becalmed that water and provisions gave out, and all hands perished of thirst and starvation. When the wind came up again the ship sailed away with her ghastly crew, was seen by a homeward-bound and overboard.

The pirate captain made fast to his pole without firing a single shot, and uttering the vessel's resistance to fear or lack of arms, he was the first man to leap on board. But the rope with which the captured ship had been carefully lashed to his own parted under the strain of the sea-way and he found himself rapidly borne away from his comrades on what he soon discovered to be a floating coffin. A still deeper blast the sails of the derelict, and before his own vessel could overtake it night descended on the coast, and the phantom ship lost sight of it altogether. Left alone in pitch darkness on the gruesome craft, the pirate went mad with terror and, seeing the wheel, raised away before the wind and, according to the legend was condemned to range the seas for ever thus in command of his horrible crew.

Woe to the ship that encountered it drifting along by moonlight or in the lightning's glare, manned by skeletons and steered by a shouting, gesticulating madman, and when on several occasions it was sighted in the fog off Medford it was considered as the harbinger of doom and disaster and the loss of many ships.—New York Press.

The (sneezing)—It takes six years to make a gentleman, you know (sneezing)—Yes, and what a pity that it only takes one generation to unmake him.—Exchange.

It is impossible to be called by any common name as in the case of the man.

Not improbable

A well known scientist was telling a young woman about a series of experiments he had been recently making with the microphone. "The microphone," he explained, "magnifies sounds to the ear as the microscope magnifies objects to the eye. The foot falls of a centiped heard through the microphone resemble a tattoo on a rotund man. The dropping of a pin is like the report of a cannon."

"That is very interesting and odd," said the girl.

"This afternoon," resumed the scientist, "I caught a fly and studied its notes, which resembles the neighing of a horse."

"Perhaps," said the girl, "it was a horsefly."—New York Press.

Shetland Ponies

The Shetland pony trade has somewhat deteriorated of late years. In bygone days a crofter could count upon getting from 10 to 15 for a horse foal but now these animals are practically unsalable unless they are pedigree. The Shetland pony is celebrated in every country and is much superior in symmetry of form, fleetness and capacity to the same class of animals in Norway. The Friesian ponies and Iceland ponies coming from the islands of Orkney and Shetland are considered the finest and usually bring the highest prices. Those of the latter island are a cross between the genuine Shetland and the Arabian horse. They are beautiful little animals but wild and difficult to train.—World's Work.

Iceberg Gardens

"We passed many icebergs coming home from Europe," said a tourist, "and on one of them a garden bloomed. It was a beautiful sight. The great berg shone like an enormous emerald in the sun, and in one level recess, fenced in by pale green peaks, a jet low garden gleamed. The captain said that iceberg gardens are not uncommon. Moss, it seems, is brought on to the bergs by animals' feet. The moss grows, it decays, it forms a soil for the pollen of buttercups and dandelions that is blown through the air during the brief arctic summer. Soon the incredible spectacle presents itself of a great cold berg adrift in the salt sea with yellow flowers springing from the hard, cold ice."—New York Press.
